

Qualifying for Volume Licensing

Windows licenses available through Volume Licensing are upgrade-only licenses. They do not replace purchasing the initial Windows licenses for software that comes pre-installed on new PCs. Each desktop that runs the Windows 7 upgrade must first be licensed to run one of the qualifying operating systems identified below—otherwise the PC will not have a valid, legal Windows license. If you don't have a pre-existing license for a genuine, qualifying OS on your PC, see the "Get Genuine Options" section in this guide.

Each of these conditions must be met in order for a base PC to be eligible for an upgrade license:

- Software under the qualifying OS license must already be installed on the device that will be assigned the Volume Licensing upgrade. See chart below of pre-installed OEM versions that are eligible for upgrade.
- You must remove the existing qualifying OS from the device in order to deploy the Volume Licensing upgrade license, unless the PC is covered by Software Assurance.
- Customers who wish to install or run more than one licensed OS at one time (including the qualifying OS), may either:
  - Acquire Software Assurance for their Volume Licensing upgrade license.
  - Purchase full Windows 7 licenses, separately.

In order to purchase Windows volume licenses the PC must have the correct qualifying operating system already licensed for that PC. ## Get Genuine Options

Microsoft Windows upgrades are designed to upgrade previously acquired, qualified licenses. The best and most cost-effective way to acquire full Windows licenses is through preinstalled licenses on a new PC. However, if you discover counterfeit or pirated software or a non-qualified operating system on your computers, that may cause you to be out of license compliance, there are solutions available through Volume Licensing that can help you remedy this situation.

To purchase the correct Windows licenses through Volume Licensing, the Get Genuine Windows Agreement (GGWA) has two options: GGWA for Small and Medium Organizations, and GGWA for Large Organizations.
